Georgia Planning Association Awards Atlanta Bureau of Planning for "Ponce de Leon/Moreland Avenue Corridors Study"

The Georgia Planning Association (GPA), a Chapter of the American Planning Association with 900 members, has announced the recipients of its 2005 planning awards which will be presented in Columbus at the association's annual fall conference September 29th.

The Ponce de Leon/Moreland Avenue Corridors Study, prepared for the Atlanta Bureau of Planning has been awarded the Outstanding Planning Project award by GPA in the category of transportation corridor studies.

"The awards jury found that the corridors study warranted an award especially for its comprehensiveness, clear identification of the vision, and thorough documentation," said Jerry Weitz, President of the Georgia Planning Association and chair of the awards committee.
